BROOKS, OREGON

FALL 1962 NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL LIBRARY SPRING 1963

RECEIVED

OCT 4 1962

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

We invite your personal inspection of our nursery any time you are traveling Pacific Highway 99. Watch for our sign 10 miles north of Salem, 40 miles south of Portland.

Not only will you be able to see the newest in camellias and azaleas blossoming in our plantings, but will be able to select personally from a large stock of true to name, disease free, quality grown plants. Our selection of varieties will please the most discriminating.

General Information

September 1962—September 1963

All quotations in this catalogue are f.o.b. Brooks. Unless stipulated otherwise, shipments will be sent parcel post c.o.d. We make special effort to plan their arrival so as to avoid any possible weekend or holiday delay. Remember our 10% REDUCTION ON ORDERS OF $10.00 OR MORE.

Cash with those orders to be shipped immediately, and 20% of purchase amount will be required to reserve plants for later delivery.

All liners will be shipped in May and June. All camellias, azaleas, rhododendrons, and other shrubs larger than liner size will be sent immediately upon receiving order.

Sizes quoted in camellias refer to height of plant—in azaleas they refer to spread of plant. Rhododendrons and Mollis azaleas are graded according to height and corresponding spread.

Sizes and prices of any specific varieties in larger stock than listed will gladly be quoted upon request.

May we remind you to plant camellias, rhododendrons, and azaleas only as deep as grown in the nursery. Addition of moisture-saving peat moss, deep watering during summer months, fertilizer after blossoming season, hand cultivation only, are suggestions to those unfamiliar with the growing of these plants.

Plant liners in a shady spot using a good peat mixture and water freely during summer. By fall they can be moved to your desirable location.

Complete cultural directions enclosed with every order.

New Evergreen Azaleas

Of recent introduction, these Glenn Dale and Gable hybrid evergreen azaleas promise new pleasure for azalea gardeners. Among the varieties are those of exceptionally large and varied flowers and unusual colorings. They blossom long and freely. Mainly they tend to be strong, vigorous growers with eventual heights and spreads rivaling many of our rhododendrons. The number of these new hybrids is staggering; and many, particularly among the pinks, will be somewhat similar. We are growing a good representative selection; and soon through further patient addition and elimination, we will offer you the best all-round performers in flower, foliage, and habit of growth. We hope you will share our enthusiasm for them.

Best of all is their sub-zero hardiness. They are an outgrowth of extensive experimenting on the east coast to produce a winter hardiness heretofore unknown among evergreen azaleas. We grew our first stock during the record winter of 14 below zero without damage to leaf or bud. An occasional variety will show some leaf shed during the winter which by spring is unnoticeable. Mature plants of the Gable hybrids reportedly can withstand 20 below zero and more; the Glenn Dales perhaps from 5 to 15 below zero or more.

Exbury Mollis Azaleas

A new race of deciduous azaleas resulting from many generations of intense hybridizing abroad. The Exbury mollis produce blossoms of larger size and in colors we have not seen in mollis azaleas before—pure white, shades of pink, striking reds, and strong yellows and orange. They are carried in trusses and bloom about two weeks later than usual mollis types. The blossoms tend to increase in size as the plant matures.

In the fall the foliage assumes the brilliant autumn tints of red and yellow. Completely winter hardy and may be planted in partial shade or full sun.

We are pleased to offer selected seedlings of clonal named varieties.

Williamsii Hybrids

(saluenensis x japonica)

Exceptional in their hardiness, prolific budding, and long blooming period. The flowers have the tidy habit of dropping intact without browning when spent.

J. C. Williams—graceful pale pink with 6 to 8 wavy petals, wild rose effect.

Mary Christian—deep rose pink, cup-shaped blossom.

Donation (saluenensis x Donckelari) large semi-double deep pink with several rows of petals suggesting depth of japonica parent.
